COMMERCIAL KENNELS

Without continual growth and progress, such words as improvement, achievement, and success have no meaning. — Benjamin Franklin

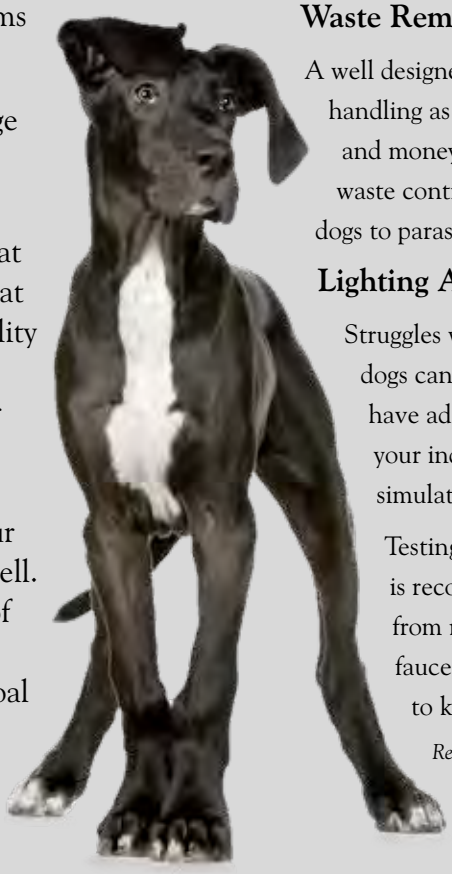
Welcome...

If you are operating a doggy day care, you are in charge of your customer's current family member.

If you are operating a pet rescue or breeding facility you are rasing a future family member for someone. The high standards that today's customers have come to expect of you can be challenging at times. We assure you that it is possible with our innovative and well thought our systems that we have to offer.

- Easy Wash Down Systems
- Climate Control
- Innovative Whelping Solutions
- Feeding & Watering Systems
- Multiple Cabinet Options
- Ventilation & Air Exchange
- Multiple Fencing Options

Another Valuable Service that our company has to offer is that we give our customers the ability to completely customize their new kennel according to their unique situation. We strive to not only provide a safer and healthier environment for your pets but to save you time as well. Providing you with a kennel of superior quality that will last you for years to come is our goal that we strive for every day.



Creating An Ideal Environment For Your Kennel

A lot of thought and planning goes into building a kennel that will keep your dogs healthy and happy. Think carefully about what it will take to keep the temperature and humidity at an ideal level, as well as lighting, waste and water quality.

Temperature & Humidity

Typically temperatures for adult and young dogs should be kept between 65°F and 70°F. Keep the air temp in the whelping area and nursery between 70°F and 75°F. Surface temps for newborn pups should be at 90°F for the first week, and drop 5° each week until 70°F is reached. The best solution to keep the pups warm without overheating the mother is the use of a heated whelping nest.

55% humidity with a variance of 10% above or below is ideal for newborn pups. Adult and young dogs are best kept at 40% - 60%.

Waste Removal

A well designed kennel will make clean up and dog handling as easy as possible, saving you lots of time and money in the long run. Well thought through waste control will reduce the exposure of your dogs to parasites.

Lighting And Water Quality

Struggles with irregular cycling in your female dogs can often be improved by insuring they have adequate time outdoors, and adjusting your indoor lighting to allow for 14 hours of simulated daylight.

Testing the water in your kennel annually is recommended. Take samples for testing from multiple sources; hoses, hose bibs, and faucets and the well, should all be checked to keep your dogs as healthy as possible.

Accu Temp whelping nests are the key to successfully raising puppies. Studies show that keeping the temp consistently warm is very critical in the first two weeks of a puppy's life. With Accu Temp whelping nests you can do just that with ease and peace of mind. The built in sensor and the user friendly digital thermostat gives you finger tip control over the temp. They can be used with hot water, electric or the Accu-Temp whelping heater.
